MESSAGE FROM THE CHAMBER PRESIDENT, NICOLAS NICOLAOU

Dear members,

As President of the Cyprus-US Chamber of Commerce, I would like to thank you for your continuous support. Also, I would like to thank the entire Board for their leadership and countless hours of help and advice on how to drive the Chamber's agenda forward. During the past 2 years we had a number of very successful events and initiatives. Below are some of the key highlights of the past 2 years:

- At our last two GALA events in 2018 and 2017 we honored Nicole Petallides (the first woman to be honored by the Chamber and Nikos Mouyiaris. Two individuals with glorious careers and extraordinary achievements in their respective fields. The events were held at the Union League Club. We also had the first Emerging Leader Award of which was award to Christina Karapatakis, Investor Breakthrough Energies.
- We sponsored the first Capital Link Forum on Cyprus that took place in March 2017. The event was very successful, and the Chamber was featured throughout the event.
- The Chamber hosted two 'Realized Cyprus' events in NYC where young entrepreneurs from Cyprus presented to investors pitching their innovative businesses and seeking to raise capital. The events were the first of a kind organized by our Chamber and our community in general. The second event was done in collaboration with Kinisis Ventures. As of today, many of the participating entrepreneurs have ongoing discussions with potential US investors.
- Beginning of 2017, we started the J1 Visa program where we matched young professionals from Cyprus to companies here in the US for internships and/or training. Ten young engineers and IT professionals participated in the program and many of them are still here in NYC working at Mana Products.
- We have sponsored and held several important meetings with President Anastasiades, many ministers from the Cypriot government as well as other local business people such as Wilbur Ross, David Bonano from Third Point and Polis Hadjioannou which have further raised the profile of the Chamber.
- We facilitated an investor presentation in NYC by Cyprus Capital Partners, a Venture Capital fund that invests exclusively in Cypriot companies.
- We sponsored and assisted the KEVE in NYC in Dec 2017
- We co-hosted a Tax Reform seminar in early 2018
- Last but not least, we continued with the development of our Young Professionals division where the executive team of CYP and the rest of the CYP members are doing a great job in keeping the Chamber relevant with the younger generation. CYP has done a phenomenal job in promoting the Chamber through their events and they have attracted many young professionals to the Chamber. They have set the bar very high as to how a young professional's organization should be run.

We are certainly able to accomplish many aspects of our mission and we certainly have much more to accomplish and achieve in the coming years especially in expanding our membership and services to our members. During last year's elections we had some of our long-standing Board members step down. I would like to thank them for their time and efforts during their service. I would also like to welcome the new Board members and thank them for the great contributions they have already made.

This past year has brought us great events, celebrations and fun. However, it was also marked with sadness. First the loss of Dennis Droushiotis, a founding member and past President and Chairman of the Chamber and recently the loss of Nikos Mouyiaris, a Board member, entrepreneur and philanthropist and a great supporter of the Chamber, have left us all with a great sense of sadness. May their memory be eternal.

In closing, we are looking at the future with optimism. The economy of Cyprus is recovering with sectors such as energy, construction and tourism showing tremendous potential. The activities of ExxonMobil in Cyprus provide further evidence that American companies believe in Cyprus, its resources and its people. Cyprus is becoming a key player in the Eastern Mediterranean region both in terms of Energy and Counterterrorism activities proving to be a stability catalyst in the region. Additionally, we are very happy to see that the economy here in the US continues to be strong. Our hope is that 2019 will be the year that the Cyprus political problem is solved.

May 2019 be a blessed, healthy, happy and prosperous year for everyone.

CYPRUS 44 YEARS LATER- A RETROSPECTIVE LOOK AND CALL TO ACTION AT THE MUSEUM OF THE MOVING IMAGE IN ASTORIA ON JUNE 5.

The well-attended event brought together young people and leaders of the community interested in the Cyprus issue and what comes next in the struggle for justice for the divided island nation.

Former President of the CYP Christina Shailas, a first-generation Cypriot and Constantinople-Greek, born and raised in Queens, NY spoke movingly about her love for Cyprus and also of the need for the youth to become more involved in the cause. Shailas thanked everyone for their presence at the event, including the diplomats, sponsors, and media who made the event possible. She noted that the goal of the event was to bring the community together, to feel empowered as a community, review the history and events that led us to the point we are at today, adding that we must "never forget what this beautiful island suffered."

Among the powerfully moving stories shared during the event, Shailas, spoke about her neighbor, Xenis Thomas who was serving in the army at the time of the invasion of Cyprus in 1974 and his harrowing story of survival, being taken prisoner, hands and feet tied, piled like sacks on a ship, and transported to Turkey, not knowing if he would survive the ordeal. Thomas, who is one of the kindest people, always giving back to the community, was released as part of a prisoner exchange, Shailas said, and he told her his story one Sunday afternoon in his diner.

Chamber of Commerce President Nicolaou who was 9 years old at the time of the invasion noted that sometimes you have to ask for people to share their stories and added that the Board supports the young people in their efforts for Cyprus. A brief video featuring the first announcement of the invasion with the sirens blaring brought back the trauma of that Saturday morning in July of 1974 for Nicolaou and he noted that when he first heard it again in preparation for the event, he had to stop it because it was so frightening.

Federation of Cypriot American Organizations President Kyriakos Papastylianou congratulated the CYP and NEPOMAK for organizing the event, and pointed out that all the organizations support the youth coming forward to lead the fight for justice for Cyprus.

The Permanent Representative of the Republic of Cyprus to the United Nations Ambassador Kornelios Korneliou gave a brief outline of the Cyprus issue, the history, events, and explained where we are today, and where we can go from here. He said there is no other alternative but to continue the negotiations for the unity of Cyprus. As a member of the European Union and the UN, Cyprus must become a "normal state" as Amb. Korneliou said, quoting the UN Secretary General. Events need to be understood, but also the geography, he said, noting that Cyprus is an oasis of stability in the region and is a reliable and predictable ally of the United States and Israel, and has the full support of Greece.

A panel discussion followed in which Elena Marouletti- Founder/Executive Producer and host of AKTINA FM/TV, President AKTINA Productions, Inc., and CYPRECO Of America, Inc.; Stavros Kamilaris- who was serving in the army at the time of the invasion which happened directly in his village of Agios Georgios. Sophia Kotzia, and Effie Lekkas shared their emotional stories, bringing history to life for all those present. A video presentation also highlighted the call to action and many noted that 44 years is enough.

PSEKA President Philip Christopher spoke movingly about the struggle for justice for Cyprus adding that all the young people must become involved in U.S. politics, by registering to vote and making their voices heard at the city, state, and federal levels of the government. He referred to the ongoing efforts for the missing of Cyprus and thanked Nikos Mouyiaris for his presence and years of support for the cause. The unity of Hellenism on Cyprus and the Greek national issues is the key for the future and for justice for Cyprus.

Among those present were Consul General of Greece in New York Konstantinos Koutras, the new Consul General of Cyprus Alexis Phedonos-Vadet and his wife Melina, His Eminence Bishop Sevastianos of Zela, Menelaos Menelaou- Deputy Permanent Representative of Republic of Cyprus, Despina Axiotakis- Cyprus- U.S. Chamber of Commerce Executive Director, and New York City Council Member Costa Constantinides.

Cards with the names of the missing were handed out as the attendees exited from the auditorium after the presentation, personalizing the tragedy for many who were not even born when the invasion of Cyprus took place. The cards with photos of young people never to be heard from or seen again by their families also serve as a reminder of the tremendous suffering the people have endured and the need for action. A reception followed. A raffle was also held for two tickets to Cyprus which was won by a student.

NEW YORK – The Cyprus- U.S. Chamber of Commerce honored Nicole Petallides- Fox Business anchor, with the Distinguished Merit Award at the May 2018 Gala in Manhattan.

Visibly moved by the honor and supported by many of her relatives and friends, Petallides warmly thanked the Greek American and Cypriot community for providing the principles she grew up with. At the same time, she also referred to the difficult road in her early years in the highly competitive TV news industry which required many hours of hard work, until she stepped in front of the camera and received recognition. The presentation of the event was made by the former President of the Chamber, Nicholas Karacostas, while the Executive Director, Despina Axiotakis gave the welcoming remarks. The Chamber President Nicolas Nicolaou thanked everyone for attending as well as the generous sponsors and highlighted Nicole's achievements.

Honoring Christina Karapatakis with the "Emerging Leadership Award to who, despite her young age, is considered by executives as "key" to invest in the energy sector worldwide, having made last year's Forbes 30 under 30 list."I have attended this event since 2013. Thank you very much to the President for the reception, acquaintances and contacts I have made but also the youth section, which includes a total of 600 members, of which 40 are in the administrative council. I come in contact with big energy entrepreneurs investing in start-up companies, especially in the U.S., and I hope soon to promote an investment in a Cypriot start-up," said Karapatakis.

Among those present were the Consul General of the Republic of Cyprus, Vasilios Philippou, UN Permanent Representative, Kornelios Korneliou, Deputy Minister Menelaos Menelaou, the Consul General of Greece in New York Konstantinos Koutras, the Cyprus Trade Commissioner Aristos Constantine, the president of PSEKA, Phillip Christopher and President of the Cyprus Federation (FCAO) Kyriacos Papastilianou.

THE CHAMBER ORGANIZED THE “SPACEOPS : WITH NEXT GENERATION SCIENTISTS

An event titled: “Prepare the next generation of scientists & grow the local space industry; Cyprus is one of only 21 countries with research at high level of SpaceOps” was organized by the Cyprus-US Chamber of Commerce, the Cyprus Young Professionals of the Cyprus-US Chamber of Commerce, in collaboration with the Cyprus Trade Center in New York. The event was well attended by the Consul General of Cyprus, Ambassador Vassilis Philippou, the Cyprus Trade Commissioner, Aristos Constantine, and the President of PSEKA, Phillip Christopher, as well as members of the Cypriot community in New York.

The President of the Cyprus-US Chamber, Nicos Nicolaou opened the event by welcoming the guests and briefly introduced the work done by the CSEO. In his opening remarks, he talked about the remarkable efforts made by the President of the CSEO, “Not in my wildest dreams I did not think that it would be possible we speak to Cyprus from space. We organized this event because we consider that it is the suitable moment for Mr Danos to inform on the work of CSEO in the Greek-American community”, Nicolaou said. During Danos’ presentation, he talked about the CSEO and highlighted the achievements and work done by their young professionals, as the team MarsSense was in the top four teams that were distinguished for the better student inquiring work in 2014. While in 2015 the team ArachnoBee won the first place internationally in NASA Space AppsChallenge competition. “The Council of CSEO is based in Cyprus and allocates distinguished scientists from worldwide well known companies and countries such as the NASA, England, Canada, Italy, France, Russia, Israel and China. We are based in Cyprus because we believed that Cyprus has something unique because of the suitable locality, the equitable financing conditions and the essential human potential. Cyprus has powerful world support, powerful international network and more from 500 registered researchers”.

Special guests of the event were Dr Marcello Coradini (prominent NASA/ESA Scientist) and the Mayor of Nicosia, Constantinos Yiorkadjis (via skype). Yiorkadjis saluted the efforts made by the CSEO and stressed that the Municipality of Nicosia supports the work of CSEO and mentioned the operation of the first spatial laboratory Copernicus Academy-Space Startups and stressed the need to create infrastructures that will strengthen the possibilities of the Organisation

CYP RAISES FUNDS FOR CYPRIOT CHILDREN AT THE GREEK INDEPENDENCE DAY PARADE 2018

Lia D'Alessandro for the Cypriot Young Professionals

On March 26, 2018 members of the Cypriot Young Professionals ("CYP"), a subset of the Cyprus-U.S. Chamber of Commerce, proudly marched with various organizations in the annual Greek Independence Day Parade on 5th Ave in NYC. Each year the organization participates to bring awareness to social and philanthropic issues affecting Greece and Cyprus, as well as support the Greek and Cypriot diaspora in the United States.

This year CYP has used this opportunity to raise funding for the Bridge of Hope and Solidarity charity. Founded in 2012 and lead by Effie Provata (President), Anna Prentas, Stephanie Katechis, and Sandy Kakavitsas, the Bridge of Hope and Solidarity exists to "offer financial and moral support to families of Greek descent in Greece and abroad." Former CYP President Christina Shailas is the official Cyprus representative, and coordinates the purchase and distribution of desperately needed school supplies for children in Cyprus.

In 2016, the Neapolis Gymnasium was the first school in Cyprus to be gifted five backpacks filled with school supplies for an entire year. To further support and expand the impact of this cause, CYP held their annual 'Greek Independence Day Parade After Party' fundraiser at Nick Neocleous' Central in Astoria, NY. "We were so pleased to have the opportunity to be able to help raise money for a great cause. As Greek Cypriot-Americans, we can never forget our heritage!" said Nick. This years joint effort raised $1,500 which will be used to purchase backpacks and a years worth of school supplies for 27 students at Lefkara secondary school. This would be CYPs first donation to the organization.

This summer CYP partnered with Eastpak Cyprus, which generously donated $50 per student in the form of an Eastpak backpack and pencil case. Lefkara Secondary School Principal Theoula Erotocritou, Assistant Principal Maria Othonos and former CYP President Christina Shailas personally packed all the bookbags with a special message from CYP members.

Lefkara Secondary School distributed these special packages in time for the 2018 - 2019 school year to the 27 students identified as needing financial support. The students and their families were extremely appreciative of the support.

October 9, 2018

The Consul General of Cyprus, Mr. Alexis Phedonos hosted a luncheon for a group of AJC Westchester/Fairfield leaders, led by Mona Abramson, and attended by Mr. Philip Christopher, President of PSEKA, Mr. Kyriacos Papastylianou, President of Federation of Cypriot American Organizations, Mr. Nicos Paphitis, Executive Vice President of FCAO. The Cyprus-U.S. Chamber of Commerce was represented by our own Maria Pappas. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss issues of mutual interests among AJC (American Jewish Committee) and the Cypriot Community to explore opportunities for networking and exchange cultural ideas

The Consul General of Cyprus arranged for a business lunch to meet the Consul General of Serbia, Mrs. Mirjana Zivkovic, the Vice President of Air Serbian Airlines, Mr. George Petkovic, and Leader of the Serbian Entrepreneurs in NYC, Mr. Milos Citakovic to discuss ideas of working together and exchanging ideas. Attending from the Chamber were Nicos Nicolaou and Despina Axiotakis. From the FCAO, Kyriacos Papastylianou, Nicos Paphitis and Mr. Philip Christopher of PSEKA.

SIX CYPRIOT FIRMS IMPRESS U.S. INVESTORS AT NEW YORK CITY EVENT

On May 2nd, Six Cyprus-based companies with a focus on American expansion presented their vision to nearly 100 U.S. investors and business leaders last week in New York City.

The "Cyprus Realized" event was a partnership between the Cyprus-U.S. Chamber of Commerce and Kinisis Ventures Limited, a business acceleration company founded by Cypriot ex pats.

The six companies also participated in a variety of follow-up private investor meetings and Cyprus-US Chamber of commerce events that further exposed them to numerous American businesses with expertise in each's specific field during their week-long visit to New York. The companies which participated were:

Chrysalis LEAP: The Nicosia-based business accelerator was founded in 2013 to assist entrepreneurship and innovation in clean tech. The company hosted the 2017 Climate Launchpad Global Grand Final which brought more than 100 startups from 35 countries to Cyprus and was won by Kenya's Bio Alkanol which obtains liquid fuel from waste materials.

Coprime: Founded in 2015, the company is headquartered in Limassol. It has created a mobile business-to-business app for more than 70 wholesale companies in Cyprus and the U.K. and allows the commerce process to be quick and productive allowing for excellent customer satisfaction and repeat business.

NanoWeld: The Nicosia-based company has created a stronger and lighter approach to carbon fiber construction currently very popular in aerospace, civil engineering, military and sports.

NIPD Genetics: Based in Nicosia, the company was founded in 2010 as a spin-off from the Cyprus Institute of Neurology and Genetics. Its non-invasive testing can be more comfortable, effective and accurate in the diagnosis and management of genetic diseases. NIPD Genetics has accounts in 20 different countries.

Proto.io – The company's flagship product, Proto.io, has revolutionized mobile app prototyping that allows businesses to test and validate their app ideas with cost-effective prototypes before development. Clients include Disney, Nickelodeon, and ESPN, and the US-based company with offices in Nicosia has more than 600,000 subscribers.

Stagedoor: The company, which was founded in Nicosia, has transformed the London theatre experience and hopes to enter other major markets including New York City's Broadway. Their Stagedoor app has been downloaded nearly 25,000 times since its launch and allows theatre lovers to follow their favorite actors, directors, writers and venues.

The organizers and attendees were thrilled with the reception from the U.S. investment community and the work being done by the Cyprus-based firms. "The presenters, and all of us with ties to Cyprus, have so much pride in the Cypriot ingenuity and entrepreneurship," said Nicolas Nicolaou, president of the Cyprus-U.S. Chamber of Commerce, a non-profit organization dedicated to promoting trade and investment between the two countries.

In Memoriam

NIKOS MOUYIARIS

We wish to express our deep sadness over the loss of our good friend Mr. Nikos Mouyiaris.

Nikos was a founding member of the Chamber, a Board Member, a past recipient of the Cyprus-U.S. Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Merit Award, a Great Benefactor and Honorary Member.

Nikos was a strong supporter of so many worthwhile causes and he provided significant philanthropic support to the Elytis Chair at Rutgers, SOS Children's Villages in Greece, and other organizations in the US, Greece and Cyprus. Nikos was a humble, kind and loving friend and knew "the power of one". Nikos founded the Hellenic American Leadership Council (HALC) a professional organization run by paid professionals, to address some of our community's challenges.

Nikos made a difference in the community and spent a lifetime making a difference, even if he had to do so alone. He was a true leader without seeking great titles. He supported the Chamber and the Cyprus Young Professionals in every possible way. He was loved by all and will be sorely missed. Thank you for everything and your sincere dedication to all things "Cypriot"

His favorite poet was Odysseos Elytis and favorite poem Οδυσσέα Ελυτη

*Ένα το χελιδόνι κι η άνοιξη ακριβή
για να γυρίσει ο ήλιος θέλει δουλειά πολλή θέλει νεκρούς χιλιάδες να' ναι στους τροχούς θέλει κι οι ζωντανοί μας δίδουν το αίμα τους.*

There is only one swallow so precious is the spring to bring back the Sun takes a lot of work it takes the dead, at the wheels in numbers by the thousands and blood from the living.

DENNIS DROUSHIOTIS

The Chamber was saddened to lose one of its founders and past president and chairman of the board, and former Trade Commissioner in New York. Dennis was instrumental in so many things and especially his promotion of the Cypriot Cheese "Halloumi". He was coined the term "Mr. Halloumi" because of his promotion for so Dennis C. Droushiotis, former Trade Commissioner of Cyprus to the United States, a dynamic New Yorker, champion of all things Greek-Cypriot, passed away on September 14, 2017, at the age of 64 after a battle with cancer. Born in New Jersey to Cypriot immigrant parents, Dennis worked at his father's Rahway Diner during his teenage and college years - and never losing the keen sense of hustle and business savvy that he learned there. Upon graduation from Fairleigh Dickinson University and after earning a Master of International Affairs degree from Columbia University, Dennis went on to devote much of his life to community activism and public service, establishing the first Cyprus Trade Center in the United States in 1977 and serving as Trade Commissioner until his 2005 retirement. An exemplary diplomat and professional, Dennis truly embodied the spirit of public service. Gregarious, generous, and warm-hearted, he earned many friends not only for himself, but also for his beloved Cyprus. As Trade Commissioner, his tireless efforts to open the U.S. market for Cypriot products - particularly for halloumi cheese and Commandaria wine - resulted in an exponential increase from $700,000 to over $32 million in exports during his 28-year tenure. One of his most gratifying accomplishments came in 1990 when he successfully obtained a U.S. registration mark for halloumi and secured the U.S. market for this national cheese of Cyprus - an achievement that earned him the nickname "Mr. Halloumi." He also helped found the Cyprus-U.S. Chamber of Commerce in 1997, serving as its president and board chairman. In 2000, he received the Ellis Island Medal of Honor Award in recognition of his service. In Dennis' memory, two scholarships have been established.

MAY NIKOS AND DENNIS REST IN PEACE!
